

Web Development Agency Employs Online Forms - Neobyte Solutions

About the business

Neobyte Solutions is an Eastern European web and mobile development agency that creates software for global business communities. Their credo is to offer professional crafted web services that can make an outstanding online presence for any company while keeping focus upon the particular business objectives of each one. From site design and development to SEO services, from web to mobile applications, Neobyte Solutions cover them all. Small to large companies that work with this agency receive integrated services and consultancy to fit all needs. The portfolio of Neobyte Solutions includes presentation websites, classified portals, e-commerce sites, a wide range of custom tools and integration with various multi-purpose applications.

Issue

As a small business with large projects, the company faces a considerable amount of requests from customers. One key feature is repeatedly demanded for any website: contact or survey forms for a variety of purposes and platforms. The team quickly realized it took too much redundant work for coding each form manually and planned on shifting to an online solution.

123ContactForm solution

123ContactForm offered the precise tools needed to handle all the programming tasks related to web forms Neobyte Solutions had to solve. A get-quote form for the agency's own portal was the first one in the line. Next came a variety of forms for clients' websites, published on their servers usually using the embedded JavaScript option.

The agency highly uses 3rd party apps integrations provided by 123ContactForm. "The Google Docs integration is the feature we and our customers absolutely love", states Alina Georgiu, head of Neobyte Solutions.

Tools used and overall payoff

- Contact forms, feedback surveys, event registration forms for official meetings, sales/marketing forms
- Publishing platforms: web, mobile and tablet
- Rules (field branching)
- Extensive CSS customization.

With 123ContactForm, Neobyte Solutions have optimized time management and can now focus on the more demanding tasks of web and mobile development. Forms were ready as easy as 1-2-3!

TESTIMONIAL

"The easy to use interface and the flexibility of 123ContactForm allows us as an agency to create almost any kind of online forms we want in just a fraction of the time it used to take for programming each form. Using 123ContactForm we spare a lot of time and therefore money."
